Rameder is getting “jumpy” With the robust 6-meter jump lead

If you feel tired in the morning, you will have a cup of coffee. If a car battery is “tired”, a very frequent occurrence, you need a bit more. That’s why Rameder has very long jump leads in a practical textile bag for only €39. A length of 6 meters gives you all you may need, just in case the car is not really accessible - in a garage, say, or in a tight space. No need for any marshalling and improvisation here.

Especially if it’s cold, car batteries may not get enough power to start the engine. Then you either call the breakdown service and wait and pay or you go the DIY way. For the latter, you need Rameder’s jump leads, which in its water-repellent textile bag doesn’t need much space in your boot and is always ready at hand.

Its robust and also flexible plastic jacket prevents damage, so you can also pull it over or put it on rough or edgy surfaces. And its clamps feature anti-slip handles and strong springs. So the Rameder jump leads should have a place in any car. After all, it may come in handy any time.

You will find the jump leads and other useful products in the Rameder shop at www.rameder.eu.
